

Message from our CEO - Luis Cantarell

Since being formed in January 2011, at the same time as the Nestlé Institute of Health Sciences, we have begun to assemble the businesses and people required to truly transform and expand the nature and role of nutrition beyond its existing boundaries.

We are proud of our current and always evolving nutritional solutions – which are already establishing targeted nutrition support as a key component of healthcare – but a new generation is within our grasp.

We are pioneering the development of a new industry founded upon science-based personalized nutritional solutions. Our focus is upon addressing nutritional needs of patients with not only acute medical conditions, but also increasingly prevalent chronic diseases. These are associated with immense human and financial costs, which present a major challenge to modern society.

Our “raison d’être” (reason for being) is to bring to life a range of game changing solutions that unleash the power of nutrition, to help reduce the risk of disease onset, and to address the unique nutritional requirements of patients battling disease symptoms and side effects. We aim to contribute new science-based solutions, taking into account individual genetic variation, and aligned with changing lifestyles demanding greater personal involvement in healthcare decision-making. Our solutions are anticipated to become a key component of patient treatment protocols integrated into holistic programs of care, beginning with diagnostic tests and potentially extending to include drug therapies.

With this in mind, my message is simple: expect game changing innovation from Nestlé Health Science and continual enhancement of our portfolio of solutions. Together, we can transform lives and establish a new industry that combats the growing healthcare crisis.

We are a new business on a bold and meaningful mission and are ‘on the move’ as we strive to succeed.

Yours sincerely,

Luis Cantarell
